United Nations' High-Commissioner for Human Rights meets with representatives of the private sector in BOVESPA

On 10/04/2007, BOVESPA held a meeting between the United Nations' High Commissioner for Human Rights, Louise Arbour, and companies' representatives. In this opportunity, it was presented to her the Brazilian companies initiatives facing the defense of human rights, aiming at establishing a dialogue between the High Commissariat and the Brazilian private sector on the questions regarding that topic.

The Canadian Louise Arbour joined the United Nations' High Commissariat for Human Rights in July 2007, after an extensive professional and academic career. She holds a B.A. in Laws and she was Professor and President of the Osgood Hall Law School, of York University in Toronto. In 1987, she was appointed to the Ontario's Supreme Court and, in 1990, proposed to the Supreme Court of Appeal. In 1996, the United Nations' Security Council proposed her to be the Chief-Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court during the judgment of war's crime in Ruanda and Yugoslavia.

BEST 2007

Bovespa and CBLC, together with the Central Bank of Brazil, the Brazilian Securities Commission (CVM), the National Treasury and other market institutions continue promoting the Brazilian capital market on the world's main financial centers in 2007.

The BEST (Brazil: Excellence in Securities Transactions) road shows takes place in Europe, United States and Asia, where the investors are able not only to hear the recent improvements of the Brazilian market, but also meet representatives from the institutions to discuss the development of investment alternatives.

The initiative participants have already promoted BEST's third European edition, visiting London and Frankfurt, as well as BEST's fourth North-American edition, visiting New York, San Francisco and Toronto. Around 700 attendants, representing banks, brokerage houses, hedge funds, investment funds, custodians and dealers, participated in lectures on investment opportunities of the Brazilian financial and capital markets and their efficiency, security and confidence.

In November, the Asians received the Brazilian Delegation. On the 6th and 7th the event took place in Singapore and Hong Kong, accordingly. On November 9th, for the first time in Japan, the BEST arrived in Tokyo. In total, more than 200 people joined the events in Asia.
